SEMINAR SYLLABUS

Seminar Description and Objectives

The three-week seminar aims to provide Canadian business and law students with an overview of the contemporary Israeli legal system, while enabling them to discover the major social and economic challenges that Israel has grappled with in recent years. The seminar includes introductory classes designed to provide general knowledge of Israel's high-tech economy and the basic concepts and institutional framework of Israeli law and government. It also includes classes which focus on more specific issues, featuring guest lectures by leading academics and experienced practitioners, who will supply students with information on the latest developments in their fields of expertise. Areas of academic interest covered will include constitutional law, international law, Jewish law, minority rights law, and counter-terrorism law.

In the course of the program, students will also participate in field trips to sites such as the Knesset, the Supreme Court, and the Yad Vashem Holocaust Museum. In addition, students will have the opportunity to visit hi-tech entrepreneurship hubs and meet start-up innovators working in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv.

Assessment

Students are required to take a four-hour exam at the end of the seminar. The grade for the seminar will be determined on the basis of the final exam only.

Class attendance and participation in all field trips is mandatory. Students who do not regularly attend class will not receive credit for the course.

Readings

The seminar is conducted exclusively in English; proficiency in spoken or written Hebrew is not a prerequisite for participation in the program. Israeli statutes and Supreme Court decisions relevant to the topics taught in class are often available online in English translation. The list of scholarly articles compiled for the seminar summarizes, in English, leading court cases and legal doctrines.

An online site administered by the International Rothberg School is available to enable easy interaction between students and the academic coordinator throughout the course of the program. By accessing the site, students will be able to obtain general information and announcements about the program. Background material and course readings will be posted online in the period leading up to the seminar, so as to give students the opportunity to familiarize themselves in advance with the various topics addressed in the course of the program.

Items marked with an asterisk are required readings. Students are expected to complete the required readings before class and be prepared to discuss them.
