

M.A. in Nonprofit Management & Leadership Alumni

Mya Goodman, USA

I live in South Florida and work remotely as a Client Success Manager for GivingData, a software company that strengthens the grant-making process for foundations. At GivingData, I have the opportunity to build upon the skills I gained during my time in the M.A. program — relationship building, problem solving, critical / compassionate thinking, and more.

Class of 2021

Aleksandra Tomasevic, Serbia

After completing my M.A. in Nonprofit Management and Leadership, I started working with the Financial Head of Siemens Austria Factory Automation. My work on marketing, digitalization and market intelligence enables me to closely engage with sustainability issues and work on cross-country projects daily!

Class of 2021

Caryn Karp, USA

I am a development professional with a passion for Israel. With more than a decade of professional experience, I currently serve as the Donor Relations Team Leader at The Jewish Agency for Israel, based in the Jerusalem office. The M.A. program enabled me to expand my knowledge and deepen my understanding of the nonprofit sector, especially in Israel.

Class of 2021

Suvi Järvensivu, Finland

I am based in Finland and working remotely as a program manager for a UK-based nonprofit called World Without Orphans Europe. It is a Christian collaboration to support and develop national movements in Europe for children to remain in, regain or find a permanent nurturing family. My work consists of general administration, grant writing and overseeing WWO Europe's programs. My studies in the Nonprofit Management and Leadership program provided an excellent foundation for my current work.

Class of 2020

Nathan Grynberg, Mexico

After completing the master's program, I moved to Mexico City, where I'm working at the Mexican Zionist Federation as their Executive Director. At the same time, I co-founded an online business focused on sexual health and pleasure.

Class of 2020

Cassandra Weinstein, UK

I am currently working for the worldwide Masorti (Conservative) Movement, at a nonprofit called 'Masorti Olami' based in Jerusalem. I am working in communications, creating awareness on social media, and writing newsletters and reports for our donors and for the general public.

Class of 2020

Shengze Cao, China

The M.A. in Nonprofit Management and Leadership was the best experience and really helpful for my future career. Currently I am living in Chicago and working at the American Express Chicago office as a data analyst.

Class of 2020

Stratton Harrison, USA

After completing the master's program, I moved to San Diego, California in the middle of a pandemic. I am grateful to have found an opportunity working for Jewish Family Service of San Diego as the volunteer coordinator for a migrant shelter. Thanks to my education, I have the privilege of working for NGOs that are making a tremendous impact.

Class of 2020

Hanna Rosenbaum, Brazil

I'm living in Jerusalem and working with content creation and marketing for a few Zionist organizations from Israel and Brazil.

Class of 2020

Gavriel Novick, USA

I currently serve as the Development Director for NCSY Israel, the only youth movement in Israel specifically dedicated towards Jewish Anglo teen 'olim' and their unique challenges. I live just outside of Jerusalem.

Class of 2019

Yiming Sun, China

I am now living in Shanghai, where I founded Fulfillanthropy last year, a firm doing consulting for NGOs and social businesses, and also impact investment.

Class of 2019

Megumi Sasaki, Japan

I'm currently working as Programme Specialist with UN Women, and supporting the women - including refugees and vulnerable girls - with the livelihoods and protection services with nonprofit organizations.

Class of 2019

Camille Troc, France

I currently work for the ICEJ (International Christian Embassy Jerusalem) as the French Coordinator and Assistant to the International Director. The ICEJ is a nonprofit based in Jerusalem and has branches in almost 90 countries. I am in charge of all the French-speaking branches (based in Europe, West and Central Africa, and French-speaking islands).

Class of 2018

Karen Pearlman, USA

I live in Toledo, Ohio and work remotely as the Social Media and Digital Content Manager at Hebrew Union College - Jewish Institute of Religion. As part of my role within the National Office of Communications and Public Affairs, I manage HUC's national Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn, Twitter and Vimeo channels. I joined HUC-JIR in March, 2021 after serving as the Director of Young Adult Engagement and Community Collaboration at the Jewish Federation of Greater Pittsburgh.

Class of 2018

Asjer Waterman, Netherlands

I'm living in Amsterdam and working as a community worker and communications officer at Joods Maatschappelijk Werk, the national welfare organization for the Jewish community in the Netherlands. In addition, I started studying as a rabbinical student at the Levisson Institute.

Class of 2018

Ikhlas Seriani, Jerusalem

I live in Beit Safafa, Jerusalem and work as the Associate Director of Administration and Program Management at the Mennonite Central Committee.

Class of 2018

Arieh Bentolila, Panama

I recall my experience in the M.A. in Nonprofit Management and Leadership as one of the best of my career. It was amazing to meet so much culture, diversity, and points of view on different topics. I am currently living in Panama and working in the field of education, as well as with groups in Israel. I love to teach and am passionate about it.

Class of 2018

Andrew Pico, USA

I am living in France and working remotely for an organization based in the UK as a grant writer for a wide variety of charities. I also do freelance grant writing on the side for clients around the world.

Class of 2018

Sari Freitekh, East Jerusalem

I am the Resource Mobilization and Partnership Expert at UNESCO's Ramallah Office, a position I acquired after graduating from the M.A. in Nonprofit Management and Leadership. Studying at the Hebrew University ranks among the best decisions I have ever made. Not only did I immensely enjoy the program, but I was also surrounded by renowned professors who widened the horizons of my knowledge and professional character, and by classmates with diverse backgrounds who enriched my experience.

Class of 2017

Andrea Galarza, Honduras

Starting in 2021, I will be the Administrative Assistant to Higher Administration at the Central American Bank of Economic Integration (CABEI) with headquarters in Tegucigalpa, Honduras. CABEI is a multilateral organism for the social and economic development of Central America.

Class of 2017

Crystal Dunlap, USA

Following the completion of Rothberg's Nonprofit Management and Leadership graduate program, I co-developed an international holistic health and fitness organization. I combined my background in health and fitness and my studies at Rothberg to create a tool for grassroots community development. During my leadership, this tool grew from an idea to a thriving nonprofit organization spanning over sixty-eight countries

Class of 2017

Stefanie Ruiz, Germany

I am a Ph.D. candidate in the Social Welfare program of the School of Social Policy and Practice at the University of Pennsylvania. I study the consequences of immigrant volunteering as well as immigrant integration.

Class of 2016

Kylie Huberman, Canada

After the program, I moved to Montreal, Canada where I worked at the Jewish Federation for four years as an Engagement Associate for Hillel, Onward Israel, and Masa Israel Journey. I recently made aliyah and am currently working as a Community Manager at a startup called Amphy, in Tel Aviv. I am excited to be back in Israel and even though I am not currently in the nonprofit world, there are a lot of transferable skills that I have been able to take with me in this new role!

Class of 2016

Tal Attia, USA

I am currently living in Long Beach, NY and serving as the National Director of Recruitment and Leadership Development for the Jewish Learning Initiative on Campus. I have been with OU-JLIC since leaving Israel in 2017.

Class of 2015

Nic Lesmeister, USA

I am currently living in Dallas/Fort Worth, Texas with my wife, Tabatha, and our three growing children (one was born in Jerusalem during my time at Rothberg!). After graduation, I led the vision to create a new Center for Israel at a Christian mega church in DFW. We're connecting pastors to Israel-related nonprofits (Jewish & Arab), granting financial requests and building a Church & Jewish relations expression. My MA at Rothberg was critical to all of this. I'm very thankful.
